California's Economy Is Now Bigger Than All of the U.K.

California's economy of $2.7 trillion sits behind the United States, China, Japan and Germany. California's large economy is attributed to its thriving tech sector and Hollywood, according to the Associated Press. It has 12% of the U.S. population, but has contributed 16% of total job growth between 2012 and 2017. California's gross domestic product also went up by $127 billion from 2016 to 2017, helping to give it a push to reach the fifth spot.
